

Luxe.

interiors + design™

0 Ecotextiles
AS FEATURED IN LUXE MAGAZINE

RADAR

NEW YORK LIGHTING

LIGHT FANTASTIC

Bocci introduced its latest line of blown glass pendant lighting, named 28, at ICFE in New York City. Designed by Omer Arbel using a technique where air is intermittently blown in and then out of a periodically heated and then cooled glass matrix, the result lends itself to slightly imperfect spheres with eccentric charm. Twenty-eight distorted globes, housing low voltage lamps, can be arranged in a variety of hexagonal shapes to accent any room with creative flair. bocci.ca; 604.710.4486

MIAMI DESIGN

DRESSED UP

Tord Boontje teamed up with Bisazza Home to challenge the outdated notions of storage solutions. Using mosaic tile to pixelate Boontje's designs keeps the new collection's aesthetics fresh while fulfilling its functional purpose. bisazza.com; 800.247.8338

NEW YORK BOOKS

STYLE STUDY

This recently released volume on the striking interiors of famed designer Orlando Diaz-Azcuy showcases his modernist sensibilities and knack for composition, while providing the San Francisco talent's personal insights into some of his most divine installations. rizzoliusa.com; 800.733.3000

SEATTLE TEXTILE

HOME GROWN

O Ecotextiles' line of environmentally friendly and style-conscious fabrics continues to infiltrate the design community. Branching out from their Seattle home base and growing roots as far as New York City, the brand was just chosen to participate in the launch of the newly expanded Edward Ferrell showroom at the D&D Building. oecotextiles.com; 206.633.1177

